

1 Chronicles 16:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank and praise the LORD God of Israel:

Analysis

And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank and praise the LORD God of Israel— Three Hebrew verbs define this ministry: hizkir ('to record/remember'), hodot ('to thank'), and halel ('to praise'). David established permanent liturgical worship before the ark, foreshadowing temple worship Solomon would formalize.

The 'recording' function means calling to remembrance God's mighty acts—reciting salvation history. This became foundational to Israel's worship: rehearsing God's faithfulness to evoke thanksgiving and praise. Christian worship continues this pattern: we remember Christ's death (1 Cor 11:24-25) to fuel gratitude and adoration.

Historical Context

David's appointment of Levitical worship leaders (c. 1001 BC) professionalized Israel's liturgy. These musicians and singers (Asaph, Heman, Jeduthun) composed and performed psalms, creating the hymnbook of Second Temple Judaism and Christianity.
