

1 Chronicles 29:11

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Thine, O LORD, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as head above all.

Analysis

David's doxology 'Thine, O LORD, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine' is one of Scripture's most comprehensive ascriptions of divine sovereignty. The six attributes (greatness, power, glory, victory, majesty, plus kingdom in following clause) enumerate God's supreme excellence. The basis is universal ownership - 'all... is thine.' This theocentric worldview acknowledges God as source and rightful recipient of all glory. It prepares hearts for worship by relativizing human achievement. This doxology informs the Lord's Prayer (Matthew 6:13) and anticipates heavenly worship (Revelation 5:12-13).

Historical Context

Offered during the assembly dedicating resources for temple construction (c. 971 BCE), this prayer models proper response to sacrificial giving - acknowledging that all gifts come from and return to God. David's humble recognition contrasts with pagan kings who boasted of their achievements.
