

1 Corinthians 12:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

To another faith by the same Spirit; to another the gifts of healing by the same Spirit;

Analysis

To another faith by the same Spirit—This is not saving faith (common to all believers, Ephesians 2:8) but supernatural trust that moves mountains (Matthew 17:20), confidence for extraordinary acts of obedience, miraculous provision, or answered prayer. This gift enables believers to trust God for what seems humanly impossible, acting with certainty based on divine promises. George Müller's orphanages, fed without soliciting funds, exemplify this charisma.

To another the gifts of healing by the same Spirit—Charismata iamatoñ (χαρίσματα ιαμάτων, "gifts of healings")—the double plural suggests variety: different kinds of healings, perhaps for different diseases, or different occasions rather than a permanent healing-office. These are supernatural restorations of health, signs of the in-breaking kingdom (Luke 9:2, 10:9). The phrase by the same Spirit (repeated with each gift) becomes a liturgical refrain, hammering home unity amid diversity.

Historical Context

The ancient world was rife with disease lacking medical remedies. Healing shrines (like Asclepius temples) dotted the Mediterranean. Christian healing, however, occurred through prayer and faith in Christ's name, not magic rituals or patron deities, demonstrating Yahweh's superior power and compassion.

Study Questions

1. How does the 'gift of faith' differ from everyday Christian faith in salvation and sanctification?
2. Why might healing gifts come in various forms ('gifts of healings' plural) rather than one uniform ability?
3. How should churches today understand and exercise healing gifts without presumption or superstition?
