

1 Corinthians 14:40

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Let all things be done decently and in order.

Analysis

Let all things be done decently and in order—Greek panta de euschēmonōs kai kata taxin ginesthō (πάντα δὲ εὐσχημόνως καὶ κατὰ τάξιν γινέσθω, "let all things be done properly and in order"). Euschēmonōs (εὐσχημόνως) means becomingly, decently, properly—with propriety. Kata taxin (κατὰ τάξιν) means according to order, arrangement, system.

Paul's closing principle governs the entire chapter: decency and order should characterize all worship. This isn't stifling the Spirit; it's honoring God's character (v. 33, "God is not of confusion, but of peace"). The present imperative ginesthō ("let it be done") demands ongoing practice. "All things" includes prophecy, tongues, singing, teaching—every element of worship must be proper and orderly. This verse sums up Paul's vision: Spirit-filled worship that edifies through intelligible, orderly, decent expression.

Historical Context

This closing maxim became a touchstone for Christian worship. Paul established a principle applicable across cultures and times: worship should reflect God's character through beauty, order, and intelligibility.

Related Passages

1 Corinthians 13:4 — Characteristics of love

1 John 4:8 — God is love

Study Questions

1. How do 'decently' and 'in order' summarize Paul's vision for worship?
2. Why isn't order opposed to Spirit-led spontaneity?
3. What would worship that is both fully Spirit-filled and fully ordered look like?

Interlinear Text

πάντα	εὐσχημόνως	καὶ	κατὰ	τάξιν	γινέσθω
all things	decently	and	in	order	Let
G3956	G2156	G2532	G2596	G5010	G1096

Additional Cross-References

Colossians 2:5 (Parallel theme): For though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit, joying and beholding your order, and the stedfastness of your faith in Christ.

Titus 1:5 (Parallel theme): For this cause left I thee in Crete, that thou shouldest set in order the things that are wanting, and ordain elders in every city, as I had appointed thee:

1 Corinthians 11:34 (Parallel theme): And if any man hunger, let him eat at home; that ye come not together unto condemnation. And the rest will I set in order when I come.

Romans 13:13 (Parallel theme): Let us walk honestly, as in the day; not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and envying.