

1 Corinthians 15:38

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body.

Analysis

---

But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him (ο δὲ θεὸς δίδωσιν αὐτῷ σῶμα καθὼς ἡθέλησεν)—The verb didōsin (δίδωσιν, "gives") is present tense, indicating God's ongoing creative activity in every seed's germination. God sovereignly determines (kathōs ēthelēsen, καθὼς ἡθέλησεν, "according as He willed") each seed's form. The resurrection body isn't chance product but divine gift, fashioned according to God's wise purpose.

And to every seed his own body (καὶ ἐκάστῳ τῷ σπερμάτῳ ἕδιον σῶμα)—The word idion (ἕδιον, "its own, proper to itself") indicates each seed type has a specific corresponding plant. God doesn't give wheat seed an oak tree body. Similarly, resurrection bodies will be fitted to redeemed humanity—not angel bodies, not our current bodies resuscitated, but glorified human bodies appropriate to the age to come. God determines form, not randomness.

Historical Context

Ancient biology recognized that seeds reproduce according to their kind (Genesis 1:11-12). Paul uses creation order to explain resurrection transformation—God who faithfully gives each seed its proper form will faithfully give believers resurrection bodies suited to eternal life. The Creator's consistency and wisdom guarantee resurrection's rationality.

Study Questions

1. How does God's sovereignty over seed forms assure us He'll sovereignly fashion resurrection bodies?
2. What does 'his own body' indicate about individual identity being preserved in resurrection?
3. How should understanding resurrection body as divine gift (not earned) shape Christian hope?
