

1 Corinthians 15:44

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body.

Analysis

---

It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body (σπείρεται σῶμα ψυχικόν, ἐγείρεται σῶμα πνευματικόν)—This is the crucial contrast. The word psychikon (ψυχικόν, "natural, soulish") derives from psychē (ψυχή, "soul, life, natural life"). Sōma psychikon describes the body animated by psychē, natural life suitable for earthly existence—requiring food, water, air, sleep, subject to natural laws.

Soma pneumatikon (σῶμα πνευματικόν, "spiritual body") does not mean immaterial or ethereal. Pneumatikon means "Spirit-animated, Spirit-characterized, suited to the Spirit's realm." The resurrection body is physical/material but empowered and sustained by the Holy Spirit rather than natural life—no longer requiring food/sleep, transcending present physical limitations, yet truly embodied. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body (εἰ ἔστιν σῶμα ψυχικόν, ἔστιν καὶ πνευματικόν)—Paul asserts both exist as certainty.

Historical Context

Greek philosophy's body-soul dualism created confusion. Paul uses pneumatikon (spiritual) not to mean non-physical but Spirit-empowered physicality. Christ's resurrection body (Luke 24:39: 'flesh and bones', John 20:27: Thomas touches wounds) is the prototype—physical yet transcendent, embodied yet glorified. This was revolutionary: a body neither purely natural nor purely immaterial, but Spirit-transformed matter.

Study Questions

1. How does 'spiritual body' differ from both 'resuscitated corpse' and 'disembodied soul'?
2. What does it mean for the body to be animated by the Spirit rather than natural life?
3. How does Christ's resurrection body (eating fish, yet passing through walls) help us understand 'spiritual body'?
