

1 Samuel 11:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Then came the messengers to Gibeah of Saul, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and all the people lifted up their voices, and wept.

Analysis

Then came the messengers to Gibeah of Saul, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and all the people lifted up their voices, and wept.

The messengers arrive at Gibeah, Saul's hometown and the future capital of his kingdom. That the people 'lifted up their voices and wept' indicates both deep compassion for their kinsmen and fear of their own vulnerability. The corporate weeping represents a spontaneous national mourning that sets the stage for divine intervention. God often moves His people to grief before granting deliverance, preparing hearts to recognize that salvation comes from Him alone.

Historical Context

Gibeah of Benjamin was strategically located in the hill country, about three miles north of Jerusalem. Its recent shameful history (Judges 19-20) made its emergence as the seat of kingship a demonstration of God's redemptive purposes. The town's association with Saul would continue throughout his reign.
