

1 Samuel 17:28

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And Eliab his eldest brother heard when he spake unto the men; and Eliab's anger was kindled against David, and he said, Why camest thou down hither? and with whom hast thou left those few sheep in the wilderness? I know thy pride, and the naughtiness of thine heart; for thou art come down that thou mightest see the battle.

Analysis

And Eliab his eldest brother heard when he spake unto the men; and Eliab's anger was kindled against David, and he said, Why camest thou down hither? and with whom hast thou left those few sheep in the wilderness? I know thy pride, and the naughtiness of thine heart; for thou art come down that thou mightest see the battle.

Eliab's angry accusation against David reflects the older brother's wounded pride and perhaps guilt over his own inaction. The charges of pride and 'naughtiness of thine heart' ironically describe Eliab better than David. His dismissive reference to 'those few sheep' denigrates David's faithful service. Family members often struggle most to recognize God's calling on the unexpected one among them.

Historical Context

Elder brothers held authority in Israelite family structure. Eliab may have still smarted from rejection when Samuel had passed him by (16:6-7). His presence in the army without action against Goliath made David's bold faith an implicit rebuke.
