

1 Samuel 18:30

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Then the princes of the Philistines went forth: and it came to pass, after they went forth, that David behaved himself more wisely than all the servants of Saul; so that his name was much set by.

Analysis

Then the princes of the Philistines went forth: and it came to pass, after they went forth, that David behaved himself more wisely than all the servants of Saul; so that his name was much set by.

Chapter 18 concludes with David's reputation ascending while Saul's enmity deepens. The Philistine princes' campaigns provided context for David's continued military success. His wisdom (sakal) exceeded 'all the servants of Saul' - a comparative superlative emphasizing his exceptional ability. The phrase 'his name was much set by' (yaqar, precious/honored) indicates his reputation became increasingly valuable. Every circumstance that should have destroyed David - Saul's schemes, dangerous missions, court intrigue - instead elevated him. God was systematically preparing His chosen king through the very opposition meant to eliminate him.

Historical Context

Philistine military activity was cyclical, with princes leading campaigns during favorable seasons. David's success against these ongoing threats built his reputation among both military personnel and common people. The contrast between David's rising star and Saul's declining effectiveness became increasingly obvious.
