

1 Samuel 25:29

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Yet a man is risen to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul: but the soul of my lord shall be bound in the bundle of life with the LORD thy God; and the souls of thine enemies, them shall he sling out, as out of the middle of a sling.

Analysis

Yet a man is risen to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul: but the soul of my lord shall be bound in the bundle of life with the LORD thy God; and the souls of thine enemies, them shall he sling out, as out of the middle of a sling.

Abigail's language ascends to poetic prophecy. The 'man risen to pursue thee' is Saul, though unnamed. The metaphor 'bundle of life' (Hebrew 'tseror hachayim') depicts David's soul tied securely with God—later used in Jewish burial liturgy. The contrasting image—enemies 'slung out'—may allude to David's defeat of Goliath with a sling. The Hebrew 'qela' (sling) creates vivid picture: as stones leave the sling with centrifugal force, so God will cast out David's enemies. Abigail's poetry combines comfort regarding Saul with warning about current intentions: David's soul is secure with God; why risk that security through sinful vengeance?

Historical Context

The 'bundle of life' metaphor appears only here in the Hebrew Bible but became significant in Jewish tradition. The sling imagery connected to David's most famous victory. Abigail's poetic language demonstrated sophisticated theological reflection.
