

1 Samuel 25:32

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And David said to Abigail, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which sent thee this day to meet me:

Analysis

And David said to Abigail, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which sent thee this day to meet me:

David's response attributes their meeting to divine providence. The blessing formula 'Blessed be the LORD God of Israel' recognizes God as the actor behind Abigail's intervention. The phrase 'sent thee' (Hebrew 'shelachek') explicitly identifies Abigail as divine messenger—God sent her to intercept him. David's recognition of providence demonstrates spiritual discernment restored after his angry departure. He now sees what Abigail claimed: their meeting was divine prevention, not coincidence. His blessing acknowledges that God used this wise woman to save him from sin. David's teachable spirit accepted correction from an unexpected source.

Historical Context

Blessing Yahweh for specific providential actions was common Hebrew worship practice. David's recognition of Abigail as divinely sent elevated their encounter from mere meeting to prophetic intervention. His immediate response showed receptivity to correction.
