

1 Samuel 3:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For I have told him that I will judge his house for ever for the iniquity which he knoweth; because his sons made themselves vile, and he restrained them not.

Analysis

The specific sin is restated: Eli knew his sons made themselves vile (cursed, treated with contempt) and 'restrained them not.' The Hebrew kahah (to rebuke, restrain) indicates the action Eli failed to take. He spoke (2:23-25) but did not act decisively. The sin requiring atonement is not merely the sons' wickedness but Eli's passive tolerance. His failure to exercise rightful authority constituted betrayal of both divine trust and parental responsibility. Those with power to restrain evil bear guilt when they fail to act.

Historical Context

Eli's failure represents a pattern seen in parental and leadership failures throughout Scripture. David's similar failure with Adonijah (1 Kings 1:6) followed the same pattern of knowing but not restraining. Authority carries responsibility to act.
