

1 Samuel 5:7

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And when the men of Ashdod saw that it was so, they said,
The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us: for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

Analysis

The men of Ashdod draw the correct conclusion: 'The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us: for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god.' They recognize both personal suffering and their deity's defeat. The phrase 'his hand is sore' acknowledges Yahweh's aggressive action. Remarkably, these pagans discern what Israel's leaders failed to see: the Ark represents a God who acts according to His own purposes, not one who can be manipulated. They know they cannot keep this Ark.

Historical Context

Philistine acknowledgment of Yahweh's power over both people and their god represents significant theological recognition. Their conclusion that the Ark 'shall not abide' indicates they understood this was not merely incidental suffering but directed divine action.
