

1 Timothy 4:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance.

Analysis

This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance (πιστὸς ὁ λόγος καὶ πάσης ἀποδοχῆς ἄξιος, pistos ho logos kai pasēs apodochēs axios)—'this saying is trustworthy and deserving of full acceptance.' Pistos means faithful, reliable, trustworthy. Apodochē means acceptance, approval. This formula appears five times in the Pastoral Epistles (1 Timothy 1:15, 3:1, 4:9, 2 Timothy 2:11, Titus 3:8), highlighting especially important truths.

The 'saying' likely refers to verse 8: 'godliness is profitable for all things, having promise of present and future life.' This truth deserves full confidence and universal acceptance—invest in godliness, which benefits both this life and eternity. The formula emphasizes the supreme importance of this principle.

Paul uses this literary device to mark key truths for emphasis and memorization. These 'faithful sayings' were likely early Christian slogans or teaching summaries—pithy statements encapsulating essential doctrines worth remembering and repeating.

Historical Context

In oral teaching cultures, memorable sayings helped preserve and transmit important truths. The 'faithful saying' formula signals: 'Pay special attention—this is core teaching worth memorizing.' These may have been early Christian confessional statements or hymnic lines that churches recited. The formula served both to honor established tradition and to highlight Paul's most crucial points.
