

1 Timothy 5:8

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel.

Analysis

But if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house (εἰ δέ τις τῶν ἴδιων καὶ μάλιστα τῶν οἰκείων οὐ προνοεῖ, ei de tis tōn idiōn kai malista tōn oikeiōn ou pronoei)—'if anyone does not provide for his relatives, especially his own household.' Pronoeo means to provide for, take thought for, care for. Idios means one's own. Oikeios means household members, family.

He hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel (τὴν πίστιν ἤρνηται καὶ ἔστιν ἀπίστου χείρων, tēn pistin ērnētai kai estin apistou cheirōn)—'he has denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever.' Arneomai means to deny, disown, repudiate. Apistos means unbeliever, one without faith. Cheirōn means worse, more evil.

This is one of Scripture's strongest statements: neglecting family responsibility denies the faith and makes one worse than pagans. Why? Because even unbelievers care for their families—it's basic human duty. A Christian who claims faith but abandons family demonstrates that profession is false. True faith produces love, beginning with those closest to us.

Historical Context

Even pagan Roman culture emphasized family duty—the paterfamilias (household head) was responsible for dependents. If Christians neglected their families while claiming superior virtue, they contradicted the gospel. Paul insists Christianity strengthens rather than weakens family bonds. Faith that doesn't produce family care is dead faith (James 2:14-17)—worse than no faith at all because it's hypocritical.
