

2 Chronicles 17:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And his heart was lifted up in the ways of the LORD: moreover he took away the high places and groves out of Judah.

Analysis

King Jehoshaphat's spiritual disposition: 'And his heart was lifted up in the ways of the LORD: moreover he took away the high places and groves out of Judah.' The phrase 'heart was lifted up in the ways of the LORD' (gabah libo b'darkhei YHWH) means emboldened or encouraged - his heart rose with courage for God's ways. This contrasts with pride (heart lifted up against God). True spiritual courage produces reforming action - removing idolatrous high places and Asherah groves. This demonstrates that genuine spiritual vitality manifests in removing sin and false worship, not merely adding religious activities. Christ calls disciples to both positive pursuit of righteousness and negative removal of sin.

Historical Context

Jehoshaphat's reforms (c. 872 BCE) followed his father Asa's partial reforms, completing what Asa left undone. His courage in God's ways led to teaching the Law throughout Judah (17:7-9), showing that reformation requires both removing falsehood and establishing truth.

Study Questions

1. What 'high places' - competing allegiances or idols - does God call you to courageously remove from your life?
2. How does being 'lifted up' (encouraged) in God's ways produce boldness to address sin rather than accommodate it?
