

2 Chronicles 6:18

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But will God in very deed dwell with men on the earth?
behold, heaven and the heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house which I have built!

Analysis

Solomon's prayer echoes his earlier statement (2:6) with expanded emphasis: 'But will God in very deed dwell with men on the earth? behold, heaven and the heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house which I have built!' The progression - heaven can't contain God, much less an earthly temple - highlights the incarnation's miracle. 'Dwell with men' (shakan im-adam) is the verb root for Shekinah (dwelling presence). God's transcendence makes His immanent dwelling pure grace. This reaches ultimate fulfillment when the Word 'dwelt among us' (John 1:14 - same root in Greek, skenoo - tabernacle). The temple pointed to Christ, who perfectly mediates God's presence.

Historical Context

Solomon's dedicatory prayer (c. 960 BCE) acknowledged both the temple's glory and limitation. This theological sophistication prepared Israel to understand that even when temple stood, God remained transcendent, and when destroyed, He remained accessible.

Study Questions

1. How does the incarnation - God dwelling in human flesh - exceed even the temple's glory?
2. Where do you need to experience God's presence dwelling 'with you' in your earthly circumstances?
