

2 Chronicles 7:14

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.

Analysis

This verse contains one of Scripture's most beloved promises: 'If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.' The four conditions (humble, pray, seek, turn) outline repentance's components. Humbling acknowledges sin's gravity; prayer expresses dependence; seeking God's face prioritizes relationship over benefits; turning from wickedness demonstrates genuine change. God's threefold response (hear, forgive, heal) addresses the spiritual (forgiveness) and physical (healing land) consequences of sin. While contextually about Israel and the land, the principle applies to all covenant people facing judgment.

Historical Context

God spoke this at night following the temple dedication (c. 960 BCE), anticipating future apostasy. This conditional promise governed Israel's history - when they repented, God restored; when they persisted in sin, judgment came. Post-exilic Israel clung to this hope.
