

2 Corinthians 11:19

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For ye suffer fools gladly, seeing ye yourselves are wise.

Analysis

For ye suffer fools gladly, seeing ye yourselves are wise. Paul's biting sarcasm targets the Corinthians' intellectual pride. Hēdeōs gar anechesthe tōn aphronōn (ἡδέως γὰρ ἀνέχεσθε τῶν ἀφρόνων, 'gladly you tolerate the foolish') describes their embrace of the false apostles' boasting. Phronimoi ontes (φρόνιμοι ὄντες, 'being wise/sensible') is heavy irony—they think themselves sophisticated.

The Corinthian church's supposed wisdom (cf. 1 Cor 1:18-25; 3:18-20) made them gullible to false teachers. They prized eloquence, credentials, and philosophical sophistication—exactly what the 'super-apostles' offered. Their intellectual pride blinded them to the difference between worldly wisdom and gospel truth. They tolerated fools gladly while questioning the truly wise apostle.

The irony cuts deeply: truly wise people would reject foolish boasting; the fact that the Corinthians embrace it proves they're not as wise as they think. Their tolerance of the false apostles' self-promotion while resisting Paul's necessary self-defense reveals inverted values—they call evil good and good evil (Isa 5:20).

Historical Context

The Corinthian church's location in a sophisticated commercial center and their attraction to eloquent teachers like Apollos (1 Cor 1:12; 3:4) fostered intellectual pride. They valued Greek philosophical wisdom (sophia) and rhetorical skill (logos) over the 'foolishness' of the cross (1 Cor 1:18-23). This cultural captivity made them vulnerable to impressive-sounding false teaching.
