

2 Corinthians 4:3

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But if our gospel be hid, it is hid to them that are lost:

Analysis

---

But if our gospel be hid, it is hid to them that are lost (apolymenoi, ἀπολλυμένοις, 'those who are perishing')—Paul addresses accusations that his ministry lacked effectiveness. If some don't receive the gospel, the fault lies not in the message or messenger but in the spiritual condition of hearers. The veiling is not in Paul's proclamation but in their hearts.

This echoes 3:14-15 where a veil lies over Israelite hearts when Moses is read. Kekalmmenon (κεκαλυμμένον, 'veiled, hidden') implies active concealment. The gospel's hiddenness to unbelievers is not God's doing but the work of the 'god of this world' (v. 4). Paul refuses to accept responsibility for spiritual blindness rooted in satanic deception and human rebellion.

Historical Context

In a results-oriented culture like Corinth's, ministry success was measured by numbers and acclaim. Paul's critics likely pointed to his rejection and suffering as evidence of failed ministry. Paul reframes the entire discussion: the gospel's apparent failure with some reveals their spiritual condition, not ministry inadequacy.

Study Questions

1. How do you respond when people reject the gospel you share—do you question the message, the messenger, or recognize spiritual blindness?
2. In what ways does modern Christianity mistakenly measure ministry success by response rates rather than faithfulness?
3. How does recognizing satanic blindness (v. 4) change your approach to evangelism and prayer?
