

2 Corinthians 4:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord; and ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake.

Analysis

---

For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord (ou gar heautous kēryssomen alla Iēsoun Christon kyrion, οὐ γὰρ ἔαυτοὺς κηρύσσομεν ἀλλὰ Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν κύριον)—Paul's message centers on Christ's lordship, not apostolic personalities. Kēryssō (κηρύσσω, 'to proclaim, herald') conveys authoritative public announcement of royal decrees. Paul is herald, not hero.

And ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake (heautous de doulous hymōn dia Iēsoun, ἔαυτοὺς δὲ δούλους ὑμῶν διὰ Ἰησοῦν)—the only self-reference is as douloi (δοῦλοι, 'slaves, bondservants'). Paul inverts worldly leadership: apostles are slaves to their congregations because of (dia, διὰ) Jesus. Christ's lordship produces servant leadership (cf. Mark 10:42-45). This demolishes personality cults and celebrity Christianity.

Historical Context

Corinth's culture elevated celebrity teachers—followers identified with Apollos, Paul, or Peter (1 Cor 1:12). Sophists cultivated personal followings and charged premium fees. Paul's insistence on slave status for apostles and Christ-centered preaching was radically countercultural, rejecting the patronage system that defined Greco-Roman social relations.

Study Questions

1. How do modern church structures and celebrity pastors contradict Paul's model of servant leadership?
2. In what subtle ways might you 'preach yourself' rather than Christ—seeking validation, building platform, cultivating following?
3. What would it look like to be genuinely enslaved to others' spiritual good 'for Jesus' sake' in your relationships?
