

2 Corinthians 6:7

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

By the word of truth, by the power of God, by the armour of righteousness on the right hand and on the left,

Analysis

By the word of truth, by the power of God (ἐν λόγῳ ἀληθείᾳ, ἐν δυνάμει θεοῦ, en logō alētheias, en dynamei theou)—Logos alētheias refers to the gospel message itself, the true word as opposed to false teaching (cf. Eph 1:13; Col 1:5; 2 Tim 2:15). Paul's ministry rests not on eloquent rhetoric or philosophical speculation but on faithful proclamation of revealed truth. Dynamis theou (God's power) contrasts human weakness; this power manifests in conversion, perseverance, and miracles (Rom 1:16; 1 Cor 1:18; 2:4-5).

By the armour of righteousness on the right hand and on the left (διὰ τῶν ὅπλων τῆς δικαιοσύνης τῶν δεξιῶν καὶ ἀριστερῶν, dia tōn hoplōn tēs dikaiosynēs tōn dexiōn kai aristerōn)—Hopla means weapons or armor (cf. Rom 13:12; Eph 6:11-17). 'Right hand and left' likely refers to offensive weapons (sword in right hand) and defensive armor (shield in left), indicating comprehensive spiritual equipment. Dikaiosynē (righteousness) is both imputed (justification) and imparted (sanctification)—the righteousness of Christ as both legal standing and practical holiness.

Paul militarizes his metaphors: ministry is spiritual warfare requiring divine weaponry. The armor of righteousness protects against accusations (having clean hands) and enables bold offense (wielding truth as a sword). This anticipates the fuller development in Ephesians 6:10-18.

Historical Context

Roman soldiers were visible throughout the empire, providing a familiar metaphor for Paul's audience. The emphasis on God's power rather than human eloquence directly addresses Corinthian fascination with Greek rhetoric and philosophy. Paul's apostolic authority rests not on cultural sophistication but on divine truth and power manifested through weakness.

Study Questions

1. How are you wielding 'the word of truth' and 'the power of God' rather than relying on human eloquence, manipulation, or worldly strategies?
2. In what areas of spiritual warfare do you need to better equip yourself with 'the armour of righteousness'—both offensive (proclamation) and defensive (integrity)?
3. How does Paul's model of ministry challenge pragmatic approaches that prioritize results over faithfulness to God's truth and methods?
