

2 Corinthians 7:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Great is my boldness of speech toward you, great is my glorying of you: I am filled with comfort, I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation.

Analysis

Great is my boldness of speech toward you, great is my glorying of you—
Πολλὴ μοι παρῆσια πρὸς ὑμᾶς (πολλή μοι παρρησία πρὸς ὑμᾶς, "great is my frank speech toward you"). Parrēsia (παρρησία) means bold, free, fearless speech—a democratic virtue in Athens. Kauchēsis (καύχησις, "boasting/glorying") typically has negative connotations in Paul (fleshly boasting), but here it's justified confidence in God's work in the Corinthians.

I am filled with comfort, I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation—Πεπλήρωμαι τῇ παρακλήσει (πεπλήρωμαι τῇ παρακλήσει, "I have been filled with comfort"). The perfect tense indicates completed action with ongoing results—Titus's report produced lasting consolation. Hyperperisseuomai τῇ χαρᾷ (ὑπερπερισσεύομαι τῇ χαρᾷ, "I superabound with joy") is an intensified compound: joy overflowing beyond measure. Remarkably, this occurs epi pasē tē thlipsei hēmōn (ἐπὶ πάσῃ τῇ θλίψει ἡμῶν, "in all our affliction")—external hardship cannot extinguish joy rooted in spiritual fruit.

Historical Context

Paul wrote from Macedonia (v. 5) after fleeing Ephesus following the riot (Acts 19:23-20:1). He experienced both physical danger and emotional anguish over Corinth's response to his letter. Titus's arrival with good news (vv. 6-7) transformed Paul's circumstances from despair to joy—not by removing external tribulation but by confirming internal spiritual victory.
