

2 Thessalonians 2:10

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

Analysis

And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved—all deceivableness (apatē tēs adikias, ἀπάτη τῆς ἀδικίας, 'all unrighteous deception') accompanies the signs. The target: them that perish (apollymenois, ἀπολλυμένοις, those in process of destruction).

Their fatal flaw: they received not the love of the truth (tēn agapēn tēs alētheias ouk edexanto, τὴν ἀγάπην τῆς ἀληθείας οὐκ ἐδέξαντο). Not mere ignorance—they rejected love for truth. Intellectual assent without heart-affection leaves one vulnerable to deception. That they might be saved shows truth's purpose: salvation. Refusing truth guarantees destruction.

Historical Context

Greco-Roman culture valued rhetoric, entertainment, and novelty over truth. Sophists taught persuasion without concern for reality. Similarly, the postmodern era prioritizes personal authenticity over objective truth. Paul insists: truth-love is non-negotiable for salvation; its rejection ensures damnation.
