

2 Thessalonians 3:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Finally, brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course, and be glorified, even as it is with you:

Analysis

Finally, brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course, and be glorified, even as it is with you—Finally (to loipon, τὸ λοιπόν, 'for the rest') transitions to closing exhortations. Paul requests pray for us (proseuchesthe peri hēmōn, προσεύχεσθε περὶ ἡμῶν)—apostles need prayer support. The petition: that the word of the Lord may have free course (ho logos tou Kyriou trechē, ὁ λόγος τοῦ Κυρίου τρέχῃ, 'run' like an athlete).

And be glorified (doxazētai, δοξάζεται)—honored, acclaimed. Even as it is with you—the Thessalonians' reception of the gospel exemplifies what Paul desires everywhere. God's word advances or stalls based on reception. Prayer removes obstacles, enabling rapid spread and glorious reception of truth.

Historical Context

Paul likely wrote from Corinth, facing fierce Jewish opposition (Acts 18:5-6, 12-13). He needed prayer for protection and effectiveness. The gospel's advance wasn't automatic but required both divine power and human intercession. Ancient travel and communication barriers made prayer vital.
