

Acts 1:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight.

Analysis

A cloud received him out of their sight—The visible, bodily ascension confirmed Jesus' return to heavenly glory, echoing the cloud of God's presence (Shekinah) in Israel's wilderness wandering and Ezekiel's visions. Luke emphasizes the physical reality: disciples watched until Jesus disappeared, precluding allegorical interpretations. The ascension validates Christ's completed work, current heavenly intercession (Hebrews 7:25), and coming return. This 'cloud' recalls Daniel 7:13's 'Son of Man' coming with clouds—reversed at ascension but to be repeated at the Second Coming.

Historical Context

Occurred on Mount of Olives forty days after resurrection (Acts 1:3). The bodily ascension was witnessed by the eleven apostles plus other disciples. This location connects to Zechariah 14:4's prophecy of Messiah's feet standing on the Mount of Olives at his return.
