

Acts 10:46

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God.
Then answered Peter,

Analysis

They heard the Gentiles 'speak with tongues, and magnify God.' Speaking in tongues (languages) echoed Pentecost (Acts 2:4), providing audible confirmation of the Spirit's presence. The purpose was magnifying (praising) God - worship in the Spirit's power. This convinced Jewish witnesses that these Gentiles had genuinely received the Spirit. From a Reformed perspective, tongues served a sign function in Acts (2:4, 10:46, 19:6), authenticating the Spirit's coming to new groups (Jews, Gentiles, John's disciples). Magnifying God is the Spirit's primary fruit - glorifying God in worship.

Historical Context

Whether the tongues were known languages (as at Pentecost) or ecstatic utterance is debated. The function was the same - audible evidence of the Spirit's presence. This occurred circa AD 40-41 at Cornelius's house in Caesarea.
