

Acts 13:39

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses.

Analysis

And by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses—Paul articulates justification by faith alone, his signature doctrine. The contrast is stark: by him (ἐν τούτῳ) versus by the law of Moses (ἐν νόμῳ Μωϋσέως). All that believe are justified (πᾶς ὁ πιστεύων δικαιούται) makes faith, not works, the instrumental cause. From all things (ἀπὸ πάντων) indicates comprehensive righteousness covering every sin—what the law exposed but couldn't remedy. The law revealed sin's standard but lacked power to forgive or transform. Christ provides both.

Historical Context

This is Paul's earliest recorded statement on justification by faith, predating Romans and Galatians. The Jewish audience would have understood 'law of Moses' as the entire Torah system including sacrifices, which provided ritual cleansing but not ultimate forgiveness (Hebrews 10:4). Paul's gospel here provoked both interest (v.42) and violent opposition (v.45, 50).

Study Questions

1. How does justification 'from all things' address sins the law couldn't cover?
2. In what areas do you still try to achieve standing with God through performance rather than faith in Christ?
