

Acts 13:49

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the word of the Lord was published throughout all the region.

Analysis

And the word of the Lord was published throughout all the region (διεφέρετο ὁ λόγος τοῦ κυρίου, diepheredo ho logos tou kyriou)—the imperfect tense indicates continuous, ongoing spread. The verb diapherō means 'to carry through, spread abroad,' emphasizing active dissemination, not passive diffusion. The word of the Lord (ὁ λόγος τοῦ κυρίου) refers to the gospel message about Christ, the authoritative divine message proclaimed by Paul and Barnabas.

This verse concludes Paul's first missionary sermon in Pisidian Antioch, demonstrating the unstoppable nature of gospel advancement even amid persecution. The Gentiles' eager reception (v. 48) created a missionary movement where new converts became witnesses. This pattern—gospel preached, believed, then spread by believers—became the New Testament model for church expansion, fulfilling Christ's commission that disciples would be His witnesses 'to the ends of the earth' (Acts 1:8).

Historical Context

After being expelled from the synagogue in Pisidian Antioch (around AD 47-48), Paul and Barnabas turned to the Gentiles, who received the message with joy (v. 48). Despite opposition from Jewish leaders (v. 50), the gospel spread throughout the region of Galatia. This established the pattern for Paul's subsequent missionary journeys—synagogue rejection leading to Gentile breakthrough.
