

Acts 17:11

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so.

Analysis

These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so—Luke commends the Bereans' noble (εὐγενέστεροι) character: openness to Paul's message combined with rigorous Scriptural verification. Received the word with readiness shows eager receptivity, not skeptical hostility. Searched the scriptures daily (ἀνακρίνοντες τὰς γραφὰς) means careful examination—the same verb used for legal investigation. Whether those things were so doesn't doubt Paul but tests his teaching against Old Testament authority. This balance—teachable spirit plus biblical discernment—models proper response to preaching.

Historical Context

Contrasts with Thessalonian Jews' hostile rejection (vv.5-9) which forced Paul and Silas to flee by night to Berea. The 'scriptures' meant the Old Testament (Septuagint), examined to verify Paul's claims about Messiah. Many Bereans believed (v.12) because Scripture confirmed Paul's gospel. This incident established the 'Berean' label for Christians who test teaching against Scripture.

Study Questions

1. How do you balance teachability ('readiness of mind') with discernment ('searched the scriptures')?
2. What 'scriptures' do you use to verify contemporary preaching and teaching?
