

Acts 2:17

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams:

Analysis

In the last days (ἐν ταῖς ἐσχάταις ἡμέραις)—Peter quotes Joel 2:28-32, interpreting Pentecost as inaugurating the eschatological age. The 'last days' span from Christ's first coming to his return, an extended epoch of Spirit outpouring. I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh signals democratization of the Spirit's presence—no longer limited to prophets, priests, and kings, but available to all believers regardless of age, gender, or status. Your sons and daughters shall prophesy fulfills Numbers 11:29's longing that 'all the LORD's people were prophets.' The Spirit's distribution enables corporate priesthood and universal witness.

Historical Context

Joel prophesied during a locust plague in Judah (9th century BC), promising restoration and ultimate blessing. Peter applies this to the church age, indicating Old Testament prophecies of the 'Day of the Lord' have near and far fulfillments. The Joel passage originally addressed Israel; Peter expands its application universally.
