

Acts 2:34

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For David is not ascended into the heavens: but he saith himself, The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand,

Analysis

---

Peter quotes Psalm 110:1 - 'The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand' - to prove Christ's deity and messianic identity. The Hebrew distinguishes Yahweh (LORD, covenant name) commanding Adonai (Lord, master) to sit enthroned. David calls his descendant 'Lord,' impossible unless this descendant is divine. Christ used this psalm to confound Pharisees (Matthew 22:41-46); Peter now wields it evangelistically.

Historical Context

Psalm 110 was unanimously recognized as messianic in Second Temple Judaism. David's authorship was undisputed. Peter's argument was devastating: if David prophesied about Messiah, and Jesus rose from death, then Jesus is Messiah and Lord. The logic was inescapable for those accepting Scripture's authority.

Study Questions

1. How does Psalm 110's divine/human dyad prove Christ's deity within monotheistic Judaism?
2. What does Christ's session at God's right hand mean for believers' present security and future hope?
