

Acts 21:32

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Who immediately took soldiers and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they saw the chief captain and the soldiers, they left beating of Paul.

Analysis

Who immediately took soldiers and centurions—The Roman tribune (χιλίαρχος, chiliarchos, commander of 1,000) Claudius Lysias (23:26) responded swiftly to prevent insurrection. Taking multiple centurions indicates he mobilized significant force—at least 200 soldiers, as each centurion commanded 100 men. Roman military discipline meant instant response to civil unrest.

Ran down unto them—The Fortress Antonia connected to the temple courts by stairs, allowing rapid deployment. The verb katadramon emphasizes urgent descent. They left beating of Paul (ἐπαύσαντο τύποντες, epausanto tuptontes)—The mob ceased their assault only when confronted by Roman military power, not from mercy or reason. God's providence used pagan authority to preserve His apostle for further ministry and witness before Caesar (23:11).

Historical Context

The Fortress Antonia, built by Herod the Great, housed a cohort (600 soldiers) overlooking the temple. Romans maintained heightened alert during Jewish feasts when nationalist fervor peaked. Tribune Claudius Lysias commanded this garrison, responsible for maintaining order in volatile Jerusalem.
