

Acts 23:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And when it was day, certain of the Jews banded together, and bound themselves under a curse, saying that they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed Paul.

Analysis

The conspiracy formed 'when it was day' shows the plotters' immediate and determined hatred. Their binding oath to 'eat nothing until they had killed Paul' demonstrated fanatical zeal that valued murder over self-preservation. This echoes Jesus's warning about those who 'kill you, thinking they do God service' (John 16:2), showing how religious extremism corrupts moral judgment.

Historical Context

Such binding oaths were serious in Jewish culture, invoking divine curse if violated. However, rabbinic law provided loopholes for oaths made for illegal purposes, so the conspirators likely had ways to escape their vow.
