

Acts 23:24

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And provide them beasts, that they may set Paul on, and bring him safe unto Felix the governor.

Analysis

The provision of 'beasts' (plural) for Paul suggests pack animals for supplies plus mounts for Paul and companions, showing respect for his Roman citizenship. The destination - Felix the governor at Caesarea - represented proper jurisdiction for a Roman citizen's case. God's providence moved Paul from the volatile Jerusalem situation to a venue where civil law would prevail over mob violence.

Historical Context

Felix governed Judea AD 52-60, known for corruption but also for maintaining order. Caesarea was the Roman administrative capital, offering proper legal proceedings unavailable in Jerusalem's hostile religious environment.
