

Acts 23:34

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And when the governor had read the letter, he asked of what province he was. And when he understood that he was of Cilicia;

Analysis

Felix's question about Paul's province determined legal jurisdiction. Discovering Paul was from Cilicia (under Syrian provincial governance) meant Felix could legally hear the case, as Judean governors handled cases from nearby provinces. This detail shows Luke's accurate knowledge of Roman administrative law and how God arranged proper legal jurisdiction for Paul's defense.

Historical Context

Roman law carefully defined provincial jurisdictions. Felix's inquiry followed proper protocol for determining whether to hear the case or transfer it to Paul's home province's governor.
