

Acts 24:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And after five days Ananias the high priest descended with the elders, and with a certain orator named Tertullus, who informed the governor against Paul.

Analysis

The high priest Ananias's personal descent to Caesarea demonstrates the Jewish leadership's determination to prosecute Paul. Hiring Tertullus, a professional rhetorician (likely Roman or Hellenized), shows their strategic approach using someone skilled in Roman legal oratory. The 'five days' indicates urgent pursuit, revealing how seriously they viewed Paul as a threat to their religious system.

Historical Context

Tertullus's Latin name suggests he was a professional advocate familiar with Roman legal procedures. Jewish leaders regularly hired such advocates for important Roman proceedings, showing the interface between Jewish and Roman legal cultures.
