

Acts 28:10

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Who also honoured us with many honours; and when we departed, they laded us with such things as were necessary.

Analysis

Who also honoured us with many honours (πολλαῖς τιμαῖς ἐτίμησαν)—emphatic repetition of 'honor' (timai) emphasizes extraordinary gratitude. These weren't mere words but tangible gifts and respect for healing ministry. And when we departed, they laded us with such things as were necessary (τὰ πρὸς τὴν χρείαν)—provisions for continuing the journey to Rome. The Maltese supplied a prisoner and his companions with resources, showing how Paul's faithful service reaped practical blessing. This reciprocal generosity demonstrates kingdom economics: those who minister without charge receive voluntary support (1 Corinthians 9:11-14). Paul's refusal to exploit his power for personal gain resulted in overwhelming generosity freely given.

Historical Context

Shipwreck survivors typically lost all possessions. The Maltese provision of 'necessary things' likely included food, clothing, and funds for the remainder of Paul's journey. Such generosity toward a prisoner would have been remarkable, reflecting the profound impact of Paul's ministry during the three-month stay.
