

Acts 4:8

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Then Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel,

Analysis

Peter, 'filled with the Holy Ghost,' demonstrates fulfillment of Christ's promise (Luke 12:11-12) that the Spirit would provide words when facing tribunals. This filling differs from Pentecost's - not conversion but empowerment for specific witness. The address 'Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel' shows respect for office while preparing to deliver devastating accusation. Spirit-filling produces boldness, not recklessness; wisdom, not foolishness.

Historical Context

This same Peter who denied Christ before a servant girl (Luke 22:57) now boldly confronts the Sanhedrin, demonstrating Pentecost's transforming power. The council members 'perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men' (v. 13), yet couldn't resist Spirit-given wisdom, fulfilling Luke 21:15.
