

Acts 5:33

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

When they heard that, they were cut to the heart, and took counsel to slay them.

Analysis

The hostile reaction - 'When they heard that, they were cut to the heart, and took counsel to slay them' - shows truth's polarizing effect. The Greek 'dieprionto' (cut to the heart) describes sawing-through, violent internal reaction. Unlike Pentecost's crowd whose heart-piercing led to conversion (Acts 2:37, same Greek root), this produces murderous rage. The phrase 'took counsel' (Greek 'ebouleuonto') indicates deliberate planning, not impulsive reaction. The same truth produces repentance in elect, hardening in reprobate - demonstrating double predestination.

Historical Context

The council's murderous intent fulfilled Jesus' persecution predictions (John 15:20). Roman occupation prevented immediate execution without trial and approval. This restraint allowed Gamaliel's intervention (v. 34-39), providentially preserving apostles. Their rage echoed Stephen's later stoning (Acts 7:54-60).

1. How does the same gospel message produce opposite reactions - salvation or hardening?
2. What does the council's murderous rage teach about human nature's hostility to God?
