

Acts 7:15

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

So Jacob went down into Egypt, and died, he, and our fathers,

Analysis

---

Jacob and 'our fathers' dying in Egypt fulfilled God's prophecy that Abraham's descendants would be strangers in a foreign land (Genesis 15:13). Yet their deaths were not the end—God's covenant transcends individual lifespans, being 'the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob,' the God of the living (Mark 12:26-27). The patriarchs' faith persisted through death, trusting in resurrection and ultimate covenant fulfillment.

Historical Context

Jacob died at 147 years (Genesis 47:28), having lived in Egypt seventeen years. Joseph died at 110 years (Genesis 50:26). The other brothers' deaths are not individually recorded but occurred during the 400-year Egyptian sojourn. Ancient Near Eastern practice honored the dying with burial in ancestral lands when possible.

Study Questions

1. How does the patriarchs' death in a foreign land teach us that God's promises often transcend our earthly lifetimes?
2. What comfort does covenant faithfulness across generations provide to believers who may not see promised blessings fulfilled in their lifetimes?
