

Acts 7:17

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But when the time of the promise drew nigh, which God had sworn to Abraham, the people grew and multiplied in Egypt,

Analysis

---

The 'time of the promise drew nigh' indicates God's perfect timing in fulfilling covenant promises. Four hundred years of Egyptian sojourn (Genesis 15:13) were approaching completion. The people's multiplication demonstrates God's faithfulness despite oppression—pressure increased as blessing increased. God's sovereign timing guarantees that promises will be fulfilled at the appointed moment, though from human perspective the wait seems long.

Historical Context

---

The 400/430-year Egyptian sojourn (Exodus 12:40) began as welcome settlement but transformed into slavery as Egyptians feared Hebrew population growth. Exodus 1:7 describes their multiplication as explosive: 'the children of Israel were fruitful, and increased abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty.'
