

Acts 9:36

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did.

Analysis

Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did. Tabitha's introduction establishes her character through practical godliness, demonstrating that genuine faith produces tangible love for others.

Certain disciple indicates Tabitha's Christian identity. The dual naming (Aramaic Tabitha, Greek Dorcas, both meaning 'gazelle') suggests bilingual community and serves historical authentication. Full of good works describes character saturated with godly activity—not occasional charity but lifestyle of service.

Good works and almsdeeds specifies practical mercy ministry—caring for poor, widows, needy. Reformed theology distinguishes works as fruit demonstrating salvation from works as root producing salvation. Tabitha's deeds evidenced genuine faith; they didn't earn God's favor but flowed from it. James 2:17 principle applies: faith without works is dead.

The emphasis on which she did stresses personal involvement. Tabitha didn't merely fund charitable projects; she personally sewed garments and served needy. This hands-on compassion exemplifies Christian love—not abstract sentiment but concrete action meeting real needs.

Historical Context

Joppa (modern Jaffa/Tel Aviv-Yafo), Mediterranean port city, featured significant Jewish population with growing Christian community. Ancient culture highly valued charity, but Christian motivation differed—loving others because Christ first loved us (1 John 4:19).

Widows particularly vulnerable in ancient society lacked social safety net. Tabitha's ministry to them fulfilled biblical justice emphases (Isaiah 1:17, James 1:27). Her prominence in Joppa Christian community demonstrated women's vital role in early Christianity—not apostolic office but significant service ministry. The account dates to approximately 38-39 CE, shortly before Peter's Cornelius encounter which occurred in nearby Caesarea.
