

Colossians 1:2

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ which are at Colosse: Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Analysis

To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ which are at Colosse: Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. The double designation hagiois kai pistois adelphois (ἁγίοις καὶ πιστοῖς ἀδελφοῖς, "holy ones and faithful brothers") emphasizes both positional sanctity and practical faithfulness. "Saints" denotes not earned holiness but God's setting apart of believers through union with Christ—directly countering any teaching of spiritual elitism through secret knowledge.

The phrase en Christō (ἐν Χριστῷ, "in Christ") appears repeatedly in Colossians as Paul's fundamental answer to heresy: all spiritual fullness resides in Christ, requiring no mystical additions. The greeting pairs charis (χάρις, "grace") with eirēnē (εἰρήνη, "peace"), Greek and Hebrew blessings united. Crucially, both emanate equally "from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ," placing Christ on identical divine footing with the Father.

Historical Context

The Colossian heresy combined Jewish legalism, Greek philosophy, and proto-Gnostic mysticism, teaching that Christ alone was insufficient for spiritual maturity. This syncretistic mixture required angel worship, visionary experiences, and ascetic practices as supplements to faith. Paul's greeting establishes equality before addressing these false mediators.
