

Colossians 1:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For the hope which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye heard before in the word of the truth of the gospel;

Analysis

For the hope which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye heard before in the word of the truth of the gospel. The verb apokeimenen (ἀποκειμένην, "laid up") means stored or treasured, using imagery of valuables kept secure. Christian hope isn't wishful thinking but confident expectation of guaranteed future reality, reserved en tois ouranois (ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς, "in the heavens") beyond earthly tampering.

This heavenly orientation counters the Colossian heresy's emphasis on present mystical experiences. Hope grounds faith and energizes love—believing God's promises about the future enables present endurance. "The word of the truth of the gospel" emphasizes objective reality: alētheias (ἀληθείας, "truth") against falsehood. They "heard before" establishes chronological priority—original apostolic teaching supersedes later innovations.

Historical Context

Unlike Greek philosophy (viewing matter as evil, seeking enlightenment) or Jewish nationalism (expecting earthly restoration), Christianity offers hope both already secured (in heaven) and not yet experienced (awaiting fulfillment). This already-not-yet tension characterizes New Testament eschatology, balancing present reality with future consummation.
