

Colossians 1:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding;

Analysis

For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding. Paul's intercessory prayer begins with epignōsis (ἐπίγνωσις, "full knowledge"), contrasting the false teachers' gnōsis (γνῶσις, "knowledge"). Epignōsis implies complete, experiential understanding, not merely intellectual grasp—knowing God's will personally through relationship, not secret formulae.

"In all wisdom and spiritual understanding" pairs sophia (σοφία, "wisdom") with synesei pneumatikē (συνέσει πνευματικῇ, "spiritual comprehension"). Wisdom applies knowledge practically; understanding grasps connections. Both are "spiritual"—produced by the Spirit, not human intellect. This directly counters the Colossian heresy's claim that special revelation beyond Scripture was needed for spiritual maturity.

Historical Context

Greek philosophy prized knowledge (gnōsis) as the path to virtue and enlightenment. Gnostic systems (developing in this era) taught that secret knowledge released initiates from material bondage. Paul redefines true knowledge as knowing God's will through Spirit-illuminated Scripture, accessible to all believers, not elite mystics. This democratizes spirituality while maintaining high standards.

Study Questions

1. How do you pursue knowledge of God's will—through Scripture study and prayer, or through subjective experiences and feelings?
2. What's the difference between accumulating biblical information and gaining Spirit-illuminated wisdom for life application?
3. Where might you be seeking 'deeper' knowledge beyond Scripture instead of deepening understanding of revealed truth?
