

Colossians 4:18

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The salutation by the hand of me Paul. Remember my bonds.
Grace be with you. Amen.

Analysis

The salutation by the hand of me Paul. Remember my bonds. Grace be with you. Amen. Paul concludes with personal signature. "The salutation by the hand of me Paul" (ho aspasmos tē emē cheiri Paulou, ὁ ἀσπασμὸς τῇ ἐμῇ χειρὶ Παύλου) indicates Paul personally wrote this closing, authenticating the letter (amanuensis likely wrote the body). "Remember my bonds" (mnēmoneuete mou tōn desmōn, μνημονεύετε μου τῶν δεσμῶν) requests ongoing prayer and concern for his imprisonment.

"Grace be with you" (hē charis meth' hymōn, ἡ χάρις μεθ' ὑμῶν) pronounces benediction—appropriate conclusion for letter beginning with grace (1:2) and emphasizing Christ's sufficiency throughout. "Amen" (amēn, ἀμήν, "truly/so be it") seals the letter with affirmation. Grace opened and closes Paul's message: believers live, stand, and persevere by grace alone, through Christ alone, for God's glory alone.

Historical Context

Ancient letters often concluded with personal authentication to prevent forgeries (2 Thessalonians 3:17). Paul's personal signature validated this letter's apostolic authority. His mention of bonds reminds readers of his suffering for gospel, adding weight to his exhortations and modeling faithful endurance under persecution. The grace benediction became standard Christian closing, distinguishing Christian correspondence from conventional Greco-Roman letters.
