

Daniel 2:19

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel in a night vision.

Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

Analysis

God reveals the mystery to Daniel 'in a night vision' after the prayer meeting with his companions (2:17-18). The Hebrew term chezev (vision) indicates direct divine disclosure, contrasting with the Chaldeans' interpretive methods. God answers prayer precisely at the point of need, demonstrating sovereignty and faithfulness. Daniel's immediate response is worship (2:20-23), modeling proper reception of revelation—thankfulness to God rather than personal pride. This reveals the proper relationship between prayer, revelation, and worship: we ask God, He reveals truth, we respond with gratitude and praise.

Historical Context

Night visions were recognized means of divine communication in the ancient world (cf. Genesis 46:2; Job 33:15). Unlike divination which sought to manipulate divine knowledge through ritual, true prophecy came through God's initiative at His timing. The communal prayer meeting (2:17-18) reflects Jewish prayer practices emphasizing corporate intercession. Daniel and friends risked their lives on confidence that Yahweh, not Babylonian gods, controls mysteries.

Study Questions

1. How does God's revelation in answer to prayer demonstrate His responsiveness to those who seek Him earnestly?
2. What does Daniel's immediate worship response teach about proper reception of divine insight versus prideful self-exaltation?
