

Daniel 2:22

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

He revealeth the deep and secret things: he knoweth what is in the darkness, and the light dwelleth with him.

Analysis

God 'revealeth the deep and secret things' directly addresses the present crisis—Nebuchadnezzar's dream. The Hebrew 'amigata (deep things) refers to mysteries hidden from human discovery. 'He knoweth what is in the darkness' means nothing is concealed from Him; divine omniscience penetrates all hiddenness. 'Light dwelleth with him' uses metaphor: as light reveals what darkness hides, God's knowledge illuminates all mysteries. This verse establishes the theological foundation for Daniel's interpretation—only God truly knows the future because He ordains it. Unlike pagan divination claiming to discern fate, biblical prophecy reveals God's sovereign purposes.

Historical Context

Mesopotamian religion emphasized hidden knowledge accessible through proper rituals, omens, and divination. Mystery religions promised initiates access to secret wisdom. Daniel's declaration that God alone reveals mysteries challenged these systems. The light/darkness metaphor was universal—light represented knowledge, truth, and divine presence; darkness signified ignorance, evil, and chaos. God's dwelling with light meant perfect knowledge without obscurity.
