

Daniel 4:17

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

This matter is by the decree of the watchers, and the demand by the word of the holy ones: to the intent that the living may know that the most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will, and setteth up over it the basest of men.

Analysis

The dream's interpretation declares: 'This matter is by the decree of the watchers, and the demand by the word of the holy ones: to the intent that the living may know that the most High ruleth in the kingdom of men.' 'Watchers' and 'holy ones' (Aramaic: irin, wakeful ones; qaddishin, holy/consecrated beings) likely refer to angelic beings participating in God's heavenly council (cf. 1 Kings 22:19-22; Job 1:6). God's judgment involves angelic agency while remaining ultimately His decree. The purpose clause reveals God's pedagogical intent: demonstrating to 'the living' that He rules all human kingdoms, deposing and elevating whomever He wills.

Historical Context

Ancient Near Eastern religion included divine councils where gods deliberated. Daniel's theology maintains monotheism while acknowledging angelic beings who serve God's purposes. The 'watchers' concept appears in Second Temple Jewish literature (1 Enoch) but here serves orthodox theology—angels execute God's decrees, they don't decide independently. The phrase 'kingdom of men' emphasizes human political structures' subordination to divine sovereignty—a radical claim in absolute monarchies claiming divine right.

Study Questions

1. How does God's use of angelic agents in governance and judgment reveal the cosmic scope of His kingdom?
2. What does the purpose clause teach about God using dramatic interventions to publicly demonstrate His sovereignty over human pride?
